Civic Voice street pride

Civic voice are asking Civic Society's to do surveys of street clutter in their town or village. Some local groups have helped to prepare character appraisals and management plans for conservation areas.

Councils have been told by the Department for Transport to rip down pointless road signs. Bourne has a large number of pointless signs in the towns conservation area, the Civic Society have asked the town council and the planning department to remove signs around Baldocks Mill?

Last week, Civic Voice was invited to present evidence to the Government's Building Better, Building Beautiful Commission.

The government will bring forward most of its controversial package of new permitted development rights and use class uses that aim to boost viability of nation's high streets, but it is still considering proposals to allow office demolition to become new homes.

Events have been taking place in Bourne as part of a national high street celebration. This event was organised by InvestSK. Through the coming months there will be more events in Bourne.

Bourne Civic Society has a collection of photographs of Bourne's racing past. They have now been catalogued, by Civic Society members Peter and Vivien Putteril. The problems that Peter and Vivien had with photographs was that on both old and new photographs there were no dates, or locations on them this has been a large headache for Vivien and Peter. There has been hours of research. Bourne Civic Society are truly indebted to both Peter and Vivien. The collection is now sealed in acid free boxes and paper and mounted on cardboard. Without their knowledge of the cars and venues we could not have completed this project.

Our Mission Statement

It is the aim of the Society to make sure that new developments are of the highest possible quality and developers are made aware of the issues surrounding their schemes. Good design is only possible through a full understanding of any scheme's environment and urban context. We seek to safeguard our existing heritage and the many listed buildings from demolition or neglect.
